Story

Deanna was almost a victim of the Insect Mesh in 1955 at the Moulin Rouge in Las Vegas. She was “adopted” by the Summit. She worked hard at marksmanship and at fifteen proved herself as a slo-time sniper on one of the Summit’s missions. She is now one of their best agents.	sings at the counter-culture club, the Red Mill.
	Deanna only refers to the leaders of the Summit as “the Chairman” and “father”.

Deanna is a close friend of Nancy Sinatra, and they occasionally sing together at clubs. While in San Francisco, Deanna

Goals & Quotes

“We don’t want to keep the insects secret. But if we start talking about them, we’ll get locked away. Think about it—we’re killing these people because they have bugs inside them, bugs as big as a human. How far do you think that’ll get you in court?”

“Will Nixon make a difference? I don’t know. The chairman thinks he will. But the chairman thought Kennedy would make a difference, and Kennedy kicked us out and started this war. Then he was killed and LBJ escalated it. Nixon says he’ll end it, but we’ll see. I’m not sure the chairman chooses well. He thinks the governor will make a difference, and he speaks a good line overseas but here in California he instigates riots and then uses it as an excuse to call out the National Guard to cover Berkeley in barbed wire and tear gas. I can’t see that that’s a difference we want.”
